The 2016 Fields Center Patient Day was made possible through the generous support of Silvere van der Maarel, PhD, and the Leiden University Medical Center.

Update on Clinical and Basic Research…

Fields Center Patient Day
Saturday, May 14, 2016
Our FSHD partnership – researchers, clinicians, patients and family members - has come a long way in the last two years. Please join us to hear internationally respected experts report back to you - telling you what we’ve learned, where we are and where we are heading. We’ll touch on progress in the clinic, in the laboratories, and on the bridge from research to practice. This report is our shared story – written page by page during each research and clinic visit. Come join us to review the tale.

Featuring Presentations By:

Rabi Tawil, MD
University of Rochester
“Where We Are in the Translational Process”

Silvere van der Maarel, PhD
Leiden University
“Genetic Modifiers of Disease Presentation and Progression in FSHD”

Stephen Tapscott, MD, PhD
The Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center
“Path Toward Understanding FSHD and Developing Therapies”

Leo Wang, MD
University of Washington
“The connection between strength, muscle biopsy and MRI changes in FSHD”

June Kinoshita
FSH Society
“Engaged Patients: Essential Partners for Progress”

Jeffrey Statland, MD
University of Kansas
“New Outcome Measures for FSHD Clinical Trials: Results from Ongoing URMC and KUMC Observational Studies”

And “Ask the Experts” panel discussions, led by scientists, clinicians, patients and family members to answer your questions about FSHD. A new feature for this years FSHD Patient Day will be having a video-taped tour of the labs led by our Lab Manager, Don Henderson.

During our day together, we will discuss the most current information of interest to people with FSHD and their family members, including recent advances in the understanding of FSHD2 and preparations for future clinical trials. During breaks, we hope that you will join us for lunch and refreshments.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. The conference begins at 9:00 a.m. A continental breakfast and lunch will be served.

Parking is free and is available at the Saunders Research Building on the west side of Helen Wood Hall.

REGISTER NOW: SPACE IS LIMITED
Please respond by Monday, May 9, 2016.

For additional information or to register by phone, please call Karen Lee at 585.275.3614 or email us at FieldsCenter@urmc.rochester.edu.

You can find us on the web at www.urmc.rochester.edu/fields-center